DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of claims 1-16 and 51-66 in the reply filed on 4/21/04 is acknowledged.
2. Claims 17-50 and 67-98 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 4/21/04.
3. Claims 1-16 and 51-66 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1-16 and 51-66 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sharrit et al., US patent No. 5,999,990.

As to claims 1 and 51, Sharrit et al teach a computing element for processing data in a communication device, the computing element comprising:

an interface [col. 2, line 59-col. 3, line 12; col. 5, lines 18-26] adapted to receive and transmit information from the computing element;

a local controller [col. 2, lines 51-58] coupled to the interface, the local controller for autonomously operating the computing element; and a satellite kernel [col. 2, lines 35-50] coupled to the local controller and the interface, the satellite kernel performing a discrete class of operations within a communications application.

6. As to claims 2 and 52, Sharrit et al teach the satellite kernel is configurable to perform a specific sub function within the class of sub functions [col. 5, lines 10-17].

7. As to claims 3 and 53, Sharrit et al teach the satellite kernel is reconfigurable from a first sub function to perform a second sub function within the discrete class of operations [col. 7, lines 28-44].

8. As to claims 4 and 54, Sharrit et al teach the satellite kernel is reconfigurable only within the class of operations [col. 2, lines 35-50].

9. As to claims 5 and 55, Sharrit et al teach the satellite kernel includes a plurality of electronic devices for performing arithmetic, logic, and storage operations, the plurality of electronic device coupled to each other and to the local controller in a fixed manner for implementing functions common to the class of operations, the plurality of electronic devices coupled to each other in a reconfigurable manner for implementing functions unique within the class of operations [col. 5, line 58-col. 6, line 13].

10. As to claims 6 and 56, Sharrit et al teach the electronic devices are coupled to each other using a reconfigurable logic technique, a reconfigurable datapath technique, a reconfigurable dataflow technique, or a reconfigurable control technique for the discrete class of operations performed by the satellite kernel [col. 5, line 58-col. 6, line 13].

11. As to claims 7 and 57, Sharrit et al teach the electronic devices are coupled to each other using a heterogeneous combination of the reconfigurable logic technique, the reconfigurable datapath technique, the reconfigurable dataflow technique, or the reconfigurable control technique [col. 5, line 58-col. 6, line 13].
12. As to claims 8 and 58, Sharrit et al teach the reconfigurability of the computing element is established on a temporal basis, a logical basis, or a functional basis [figs. 6-7].
13. As to claims 9 and 59, Sharrit et al teach the class of operations is based upon a desired level of performance for the application [col. 3, lines 23-35].
14. As to claims 10 and 60, Sharrit et al teach the discrete operation is an algorithm [col. 8, lines 41-53].
15. As to claims 11 and 61, Sharrit et al teach the class of operations is limited to a class of mathematical field operations [col. 8, lines 41-53].
16. As to claims 12 and 62, Sharrit et al teach the application within which the operations are used is a wireless communications application [fig. 1].
17. As to claims 13 and 63, Sharrit et al teach the operations used in the wireless communications application include modem operations and codec operations [col. 5, lines 18-32; col. 7, lines 15-27].
18. As to claims 14 and 64, Sharrit et al teach the local controller manages the kernel autonomously from circuitry outside of the computing element [col. 4, lines 9-27].
19. As to claims 15 and 65, Sharrit et al teach the satellite kernel includes a computing element at a lower hierarchical level than the satellite kernel [fig. 4].

Art Unit: 2182

20. As to claims 16 and 66, Sharrit et al teach the satellite kernel includes a plurality of selective interconnects coupling the plurality of electronic devices [col. 5, line 58-col. 6, line 13].
